

Möbius Pottery Models

I am on a quest to find the earliest unambiguous depiction of a complete Möbius band. One place where such a geometrical feature might be found is in pottery. While there are many ancient artifacts with twisted handles, I have not yet found one that shows a completely closed Möbius band that makes it clear that the artisan / artist was aware of this concept of a single-sided closed-loop ribbon.

Below are some of my own models made on a 3D-printer to illustrate what I am looking for. If you find anything like this predating 1858, please let me know.
